Military Experts Declare Turkish Armies' Position Extremely Perilous.

Russians Advancing on Both North and the South, Hoping to Reach Bagdad Railroad in Advance of Turks.

British Call Class No. 1, Comprising Young Bachelors to the Colors.

By Associated Press. London, February 21.—The rapid advance of the Russian forces in Turkish Armenia following the fall of Erzerum is complicating the task of the Turks in efforts to reform their scattered forces.

From the Russian headquarters in the Caucasus comes the report today that two Turkish army corps which were on their way to reinforce the garrison at Erzerum turned back when they learned that the fortress had fallen.

Assuming the accuracy of this report, the Turks in eastern Armenia have lost the prospect of important help in extricating themselves from what appears to be a perilous position.

Unofficial accounts of the Russian movements record an advance both to the south and to the north.

The movement to the north is in the direction of Diarbekr and the Bagdad railway, 50 miles beyond.

The southward movement is in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Turkish forces which have been operating along the Black Sea coast.

Petrograd dispatches indicate that definite results are earliest expected from the movement to the north.

Far-reaching results would follow the successes of the Russians toward the south, it would appear, as the cutting of the Bagdad railway would sever communication with Syria and point to the possibility of close cooperation with the British down the Tigris River from Bagdad, in operations for the taking of that city.

Great Britain has called to the colors Class No. 1 of the recruits under the military service act, comprising the youngest of the bachelors. The calling up of the single men has now been completed.

A minor success for the British on the German East Africa border is announced here.

NOW WANT JAP DATA

CRONES STILL IN NEW YORK

New York, February 21.—Jean Crones, who is being sought by the police throughout the East and Middle West for attempting to poison Archbishop Mundelein and three hundred other guests at a banquet in Chicago, is still in this city, authorities believe.

The committee authorized Chairman Hay to draft the bill and have it ready for the committee next Wednesday or Thursday, with the understanding that amendments meeting the individual views of members may be offered later.

The committee agreed that Congress has the constitutional right to take over the national guard by legislative enactment.

GERMAN CRISIS IN GRAVE STATE

Latest Announced Policy of German Powers Contains No Assurance for the Future.

Lusitania Incident, Germany Insists, Deals Only With the Past.

Germans Refuse to Exempt From Attacks Merchantmen Carrying Guns, if Only "For Defense."

By Associated Press. Washington, February 21.—State Department officials said today they consider the submarine issue with Germany still in a grave state, because the Lusitania agreement, in the light of the newly announced submarine policy of the Germanic powers, contains no assurances for the future.

The situation created by the announced intention of sinking armed merchant ships without warning after February 29, officials said, was still in the abstract and was being considered as such.

The Lusitania agreement itself, as it now stands, they explained, merely treats of the past; and although it gives all in that respect for which the United States has contended, officials do not feel that it clearly guarantees against another such disaster.

It was demonstrated that the Lusitania was wholly unarmed, but the United States has since taken the position that it considers a ship armed for defensive purposes only, and a ship carrying no guns, in the same class.

The German contention is that under the new conditions of naval warfare, brought about by the advent of the submarine, a merchant ship to be immune from attack should carry no arms whatever.

IDEAL CUBA AND BEAUTIFUL HAVANA CITY

Mr. Will S. Ford Writes for Herald Readers His Impressions of the "Pearl of the Antilles," and the "Paris of America."

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 12, 1916.

To The Herald: — Thinking your readers might be interested in a few facts concerning Cuba and its metropolis, Havana, inspries me to express a few thoughts concerning them.

Robt. Rogers and I started on Feb. 2 for a warmer climate and after visiting the usual Florida resorts, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Palm Beach and Miami, decided to see something real tropical, strange and foreign.

Boarding one of Flaggs "over the sea" railroad trains at Miami, Fla., in five hours we had reached Key West, Fla., the farthest key out in the Gulf of Mexico, crossed arms of the sea on cement piers by the dozens, ranging from 500 feet to seven and one-half miles in length, wondering at the skill and courage of man to build a railroad where nature offered such formidable obstacles. Our hundred and sixty-five miles, and every one of them intensely interesting to anyone, either mere sightseers or more close observer.

Everyone knows something of Key West; the fact of its location so far from main land and on an island and the most tropical city of the United States being of first importance. Here we saw monitors, torpedo boat destroyers and submarines, and had the pleasure of going aboard and having everything explained, most interestingly.

Then for Havana, Cuba, only 90 miles away. A foreign land, a foreign language, and yet so close to our shores, ruled by Spain for centuries, whose power, when the Stars and Stripes were lowered and the Cuban flag flung to the breeze a few years ago, passed away forever. The President must be a native born Cuban, and to hold any political office, one must be a citizen of Cuba, of course.

The Cubans like Americans. They Spaniards simply don't see you.

Cuba, nearly 1,000 miles from east to west, population two and one-half millions, all varieties of soil, mountains as high as 5000 feet, an ideal climate, truly named the "Pearl of the Antilles."

Havana, population 375,000, the seat of government, the center of wealth and luxury, picturesque, strange and interesting every minute of our sojourn within her environs; rightly named "the Paris of America." The old city and the new. Narrow streets and beautiful wide avenues. The costly, gorgeous home of the wealthy class side by side with the poorest home and a mixture of color in the population beyond anyone, even a native, to marvel. Very little race distinction here.

Political graft is here, and the home of one man, for four years a member of the House of Representatives, was particularly pointed out, that was poor when he entered on his term and accumulated enough to build a house worth $60,000.

Sugar and tobacco is the source of wealth and many heads of these industries live in homes that are veritable palaces. The owners drive in foreign cars costing from $2000 to $7,000 and dress to correspond, their women outrivalling those of the states in their many colors worn and richness of texture.

American made cars are coming now and one sees Buicks, Hudsons, an occasional Packard and Fords everywhere. Three years ago there were none in Havana, now 25,000.

The license for cars is rated on horse power and is from $50.00 to $75.00. Chauffeurs' license $12.00. Gasoline 40c and 45c for the best and has no effect on the way they ramble. They have speed limits and rules of driving, but no one pays much attention to them. Of course they get pinched occasionally.

Living is from 25 to 50 per cent higher here than in the states, if one ket is carried on the shoulders of wants to live as he is used to doing the friends or relatives. If drawn there, on account of the duty, but life can be sustaining very cheaply by the poor. The climate is kind eight or ten being used.

Havana has many hospitals, wealthy clubs and fine government buildings. The national opera house costing three million dollars, built of sand stone and elaborately carved and decorated with many grouped fixtures in Italian marble.

WHEN SABINA WON THE GAME

That war—and particularly victory, is the greatest of inspiration for the poet to wag his pen is again demonstrated.

Until a year ago it was the custom to place all caskets on a marble slab inside the cemetery gate where the casket was opened by an official to be sure if the person was really and truly dead. The poor are buried, but their relatives must pay a yearly rent, and when not paid their bodies are removed, cast into a tomb for the purpose, and another put in the same grave.

Burials take place from 4 to 6 p.m. only and I have seen them entering the gates on the trot, driver whip in hand, white and black horses. Infants and men and women, sometimes a very short service in the chapel then a dart for the grave, all in a hurry, so uncommon to this country, as if anxious to get away from the surroundings.

Go to Havana. You will enjoy yourself as I have done. Everything is so strange and entirely foreign.

Learn a little Spanish, which is not difficult, put up with Spanish cooking and being robbed with high prices and on your return be glad you went, and also happy that you live in good old U. S. A.

Yours truly,

ANOTHER JOLT

(By American Press)

London, Feb. 21.—The plan of aiding Belgium to feed herself by rehabilitating the industries of the country under control of the American commission for relief in Belgium has failed, according to a letter written by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, to M. Hyman, the Belgian minister here, because the Germans thus far have failed to reply to the request for guarantees that raw materials and manufactured goods will not be seized by the occupying armies.

The American relief commission some time ago proposed that certain kinds of noncontraband raw materials should be permitted to pass through the British blockade into Belgium, goods manufactured from them to be re-exported. It was proposed that the balance of trade thus created in favor of Belgium should be invested in food, thus putting the population, as far as possible, upon a self-supporting basis and at the same time checking the growing demoralization due to long unemployment.

TRAGIC TALK.

Lying one day 'neath my flivver,
Flat on my back in the road,
I tried to tinker it up so
I wouldn't have to be towed.

All things replaced save one cotter,
Vainly I figured and thumbed
And every moment kept growing
More sweated, gritted and gummed

Nobly I stifled my feelings,
Feigning the thing was a play.
Setting my teeth on my patience
So it might not get away.

Fifty-nine times that same cotter
Slipped and fell out on my face;
Fifty-nine times I returned it
Patiently back to its place.

Sixty!—and still it continued;
In me a hurricane brewed.
Sixty, and up—how much longer
Could the wild storm be subdued?

Seventy! Then I exploded,
Ripped out a sulphurous word.
Up at the blast went my flivver,
Up and away, like a bird!

Never since then have I seen it;
Don't care to see it—the day
It strikes the earth it will be just
One complete wreck, anyway.

THE STAR OF LIBERTY

Washington's Flag.

A VALUABLE and interesting relic of George Washington now on exhibition in the Valley Forge Museum of American History is Washington's headquarters flag. His marquee was purchased by the museum after having been exhibited for years in the National museum at Washington. It was his first headquarters flag and was used by him throughout the war of the Revolution.

Now through the courtesy of Miss Frances B. Lovell, a descendant of Betty Lewis, the sister of Washington, the flag of the commander in chief of the armies of the patriots is exhibited with the famous war tent.

For years the flag was a treasured heirloom in Miss Lovell's family, and few knew of its existence. Upon her father's death she became its owner. It was known to the family as "Washington's headquarters flag."

"That it is the unidentified flag of Peale's portraits there can be no doubt," said the Rev. W. Herbert Burk, founder of the Valley Forge museum, who obtained the treasured relic. "The flag of one picture," says the Rev. Mr. Burk, "is a blue jack with thirteen stars. The flag now in the museum here is a light blue silk jack with thirteen stars, the blue faded and the stars yellow with age."

The flag is thirty-six inches long and twenty-eight inches wide. The heading is of homespun linen, with three eyelets worked with thread. The stars are six pointed, double stitched, and the silk back of them has been cut out to show the stars on both sides. The stars are not arranged in a circle, but in lines following the crosses of the British flag, which, the Rev. Mr. Burk said, seems to have been the earlier arrangement.

Washington.

Virginia gave us this imperial man,
Cast in the massive mold.
Of those high statured ages old
Which into grander forms our metal ran:
She gave us this unblemished gentleman,
Soldier and statesman, rarest union:
Broad minded, higher souled, there is but one
Who was all this and ours and all men's—

UPON a wild and lonely coast
A lighthouse sent afar
To mariners its friendly beam,
And o'er it blazed a star.
The lighthouse fell into the sea,
But still supremely bright
The steadfast star remained to guide
The sailors in the night.

SO names of lesser glory burn
O'er Time's resistless tides,
Then topple and are swept away,
But Washington's abides.
It shines above a stormy world
Immutable as Fate,
The bright immortal star by which
We steer the ship of state.

HOW WASHINGTON LOOKED.

Description of the First President by an Englishman Who Visited Him.

George Washington's greatness of character impressed all with whom he came in contact. This is the universal testimony. It is hard to measure the impression he made at this distance, yet many descriptions have been preserved.

Knowledge is in every country the surest basis of public happiness.

Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive.

Be not hasty to believe flying reports to the disparagement of others.

I never say anything of a man I have the slightest scruple of saying to him.

To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace.

Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire—conscience.

Observe good faith and justice toward all nations. Cultivate peace and harmony with all.

Good sense and honesty are qualities too rare and too precious not to hold in particular esteem.

Tis our true policy to steer clear of permanent alliances with any portion of the foreign world.

I hope I shall always possess firmness and virtue to maintain what I consider the most enviable of all titles—an honest man.

It would be worthy of a free, enlightened and at no distant period, a great nation to give mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence.

There is no truth more thoroughly established than that there exists in the economy of nature an indissoluble union between virtue and happiness, between duty and advantage, between the genuine maxims and an honest policy and the solid rewards of public prosperity.

The president in his person is tall and thin, but erect; rather of an engaging than a dignified presence. He appears very thoughtful, slow in delivering himself, which occasions some to conclude him reserved, but it is rather, I apprehend, the effect of much thinking and reflection, for there is a great appearance to me of affability and accommodation. He was at this time in his sixty-third year, being born Feb. 11, 1732, O. S., but he has very little appearance of age, having been all his lifetime so exceeding temperate. There is a certain anxiety visible in his countenance, with marks of extreme sensibility.

UNION MEETING HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

The young people's church organizations of the city united in a splendid union meeting at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday evening.

The auditorium was filled and the gathering an excellent proof that there was real live working interest among a large number of Washington young people.

The union meeting was instigated by Mr. Albert Barney, president of the C. E. Society of the Presbyterian church, and the program under his direction.

Prof. O. K. Probasco filled the role of leader.

Miss Kathleen Davis played a pretty opening solo; Miss Edith Gardner and Mr. L. L. Bowman favored the audience with vocal solos.

The subject was "How to put the Bible into Life," and short talks were made by Mr. L. E. Spray, of the Christian church; Mrs. M. O. Ireland or the McNair Memorial church, Rev. Stone, of Grace church; Mr. Patton of St. Andrews Episcopal church, Mr. H. Hicks, First Baptist, and Prof. Probasco of the First Presbyterian.

The church had been beautifully decorated with flags and bunting by Elmer Zimmerman, of Mrs. R. S. Quinn's Sunday school class of young men, and his assistants, in honor of Washington's Birthday. This class held a special memorial service for Washington and Lincoln in the morning, at which Hon. C. A. Reid made a splendid short address.

ENTERTAINMENT WAS BEAUTIFULLY GIVEN

Forty children of the kindergarten, first and second grades, of Central, under Misses Bell, Haines, Pinkerton and Montgomery, celebrated their birthdays with a beautiful George Washington party in the high school corridors.

The children were costumed with red, white and blue sashes, white satin paper hats with tiny shields in the national colors, and took part in a Patriotic Pageant that was extremely pretty and patriotic.

There was a very attractive George Washington entertainment and patriotic songs sung by the hundred and fifty children of the different rooms.

The children grouped to form a living flag in effective finale.

At the close of the program the "birthdayites" were given a treat of candy.

Two hundred and fifty visitors crowded the corridor and thoroughly enjoyed the pretty entertainment.

DOG NUISANCE ON THE INCREASE

The number of stray dogs in the uptown district, or in fact throughout the city, apparently is on the increase, and a large number of the animals are not wearing collars bearing the license tag required by law.

However, the dogs which frequent the uptown district are a constant source of annoyance to pedestrians and persons in vehicles are tagged.

Mayor Oster, in the near future, expects to take steps toward eliminating the ever increasing nuisance.

BEAUTIFUL CANTATA RENDERED BY CHOIR

Both auditorium and Sunday school room of the First Presbyterian church were filled Sunday night, when the choir rendered a cantata, "Mary of Bethany," and a silver offering was taken for the volunteer singers of the choir.

The setting of the cantata was unusual and the arrangement and recitative features quite effective.

The music was beautiful, its finish and expression, and in solos,

Miss Hollingsworth sang a brilliant introductory solo, "Jerusalem Awaken," followed by Dr. L. P. Howell in a beautiful tenor solo, "God is Peace." Dr. Howell was in exceptionally good voice.

The leading parts in the cantata were "Mary," taken with effective interpretation by Miss Ada Woodward; "Martha," by Mrs. Mary G. of Mrs. Quinns. Mrs. Hopkins, Miss Burgett, who assisted the volunteers, and "Lazarus," by Mr. R. Kibler, who met heavy demands in solos, duets and trios, with the soprano and contralto.

Miss Woodward was suffering from a severe cold but her voice was very sweet and beautifully modulated in the plaintive strains.

The rich timbre of Mrs. Burgett's voice was well adapted to her role.

Mrs. Lillie G. Davis accompanied the cantata with perfect accord and added several beautiful organ solos to the program.

The chancel was artistically decorated with potted plants and cut flowers.

BOMBS DROPPED ON COAST TOWNS

German Airships In Another Daylight Raid.

BUT LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

Germans Succeed In Capturing British Position North of Ypres, but Are Repulsed When They Cross Canal and Attack the French—Russians Striving to Head Off Fleeing Turkish Army.

London, Feb. 21.—Four German seaplanes made a raid over the east and southeast coasts of England, according to an official announcement made by the British war office. The total casualties are given as two men and one boy killed and one marine wounded. Considerable material damage was done to private property. The raid occurred Sunday forenoon. Many bombs were dropped.

A feature of the official account is the frank admission that British aircraft, one naval plane and two aeroplanes, which ascended to attack the raiders, failed to reach them. It appears the German planes are capable of ascending to an extraordinary height.

The war office states that two biplanes, after circling over the town of Lowestoft, in Kent, "rose to a great height and seemingly vanished." Fifteen minutes later they reappeared over the town and then flew to the east.

At Lowestoft it develops only three bombs hit buildings. Others fell on waste ground, into gardens, on the beach and into the sea, none of them doing any damage of military importance.

The Germans have been operating along the Yser canal in Belgium, to the north of Ypres. From the British 350 meters of position were captured and held, despite hand grenade attacks to recapture it. After a heavy bombardment the Germans attempted to cross the canal and occupy French positions, and several groups did succeed in making their way to this line trench. They, however, were immediately driven back. British to the south of Loos in a lively engagement succeeded in making an advance to the edge of mine crater held by the Germans.

The French in Champagne between the Meuse and Moselle rivers and to the west of the forest of Apremont, have bombarded successfully German positions, while in the Argonne forest a mine exploded by the French shattered the German works.

Only isolated engagements have taken place on the Russian front. On the Austro-Italian line the artillery duels continue.

Austrians Continue Advance.

Continuing their advance in Albania, the Austro-Hungarians report the capture near Bazar-Sjak, a short distance northeast of Durazzo, of an advanced Italian position. This is the first indication that the Italians were operating so far north in Albania, the belief having prevailed that their activities had been confined to the locality adjacent to Avlona.

That progress is being made by the Teutonic allies in the direction of Avlona seemingly is shown by the report that the Albanians who are fighting with them have occupied the town of Berat, situated about thirty-one miles northeast of Avlona.

The Russian army which captured Erzeroum, in Armenia, is endeavoring to cut off the retreat of the Turks, who are retiring with as much speed as possible. Dispatches from Petrograd report the capture of the towns of Mush and Achlat, to the south, heavy fighting preceding their taking by storm. Along the Black sea coast, Russian warships are pounding at the Turkish batteries and harrassing the retreating troops.

The northern wing of the Russian army has captured the town of Widje and is driving the Turks back in the direction of Gumisa Khaneh, which is on the road to Trebizond, while large Russian forces are moving westward from Erzerum with the object of cutting off these Turkish troops before they can reach a new line of defense.

"AIN'T HE SLICK?"

(By American Press)

New York, Feb. 21.—Ignatius T. T. Lincoln, German spy, rests in solitary confinement in the Raymond street jail, Brooklyn, thinking over the snappy things he had written previous to his capture, twitting the federal authorities about his own elusiveness.

Federal agents are continuing their inquiry along lines that may bring further arrests in connection with Lincoln's escape and harboring in various places.

The line of inquiry is directed in four different ways. First, into the details of his escape; secondly, the persons who gave him lodging or helped him during his freedom; thirdly, whether he had any direct communication with the newspaper that received letters from him, and whether he received money from the editors; fourthly, whether any money obtained from the publishers got into his hands after his escape through various mediums.

Lincoln has announced that he is ready to tell all.

THE CAPTORS PRISONERS

(By American Press)

Norfolk, Feb. 21.—Lieutenant Berg, commanding the captured British liner Appam, practically made prisoners of the two United States deputy marshals placed on his ship by order of the federal court, following proceedings brought by the African Steam Navigation company of Liverpool to secure possession of the ship. He did not give the two Americans food and forbade them from going about the ship. They were obliged to remain aft and were practically under guard. Lieutenant Berg will hold a conference with representatives of the German embassy.

TAKE THAT!

(By American Press)

San Francisco, Feb. 21.—Compromise between the Republicans and Progressives in the nomination of California delegates to the Republican national convention, to be held in Chicago in June, has been rejected by the executive committee of the Republican state central committee at a meeting here. The Progressive proposition was to let the Republicans nominate thirteen of the twenty-six Republican delegates if a like number of Progressives would be acceptable. It was decided by the committee that the California delegation to Chicago should go uninstructed.

OPTOMISTIC

(By American Press)

Washington, Feb. 21.—Following the publication of reports that Count Von Bernstorff had got into the bad graces of the American government, it was officially denied that Secretary Lansing contemplated calling the ambassador to the state department for an explanation. It was insisted there had been no change in the relations, official or personal, between Secretary Lansing and the ambassador.

Germany's reply to the new demand of the United States is not expected for several days. As the German declaration of intention to sink all armed merchantmen goes into effect March 1, it is thought probable that a reply will be received before that date. The American government is also looking for some word from Austria before that time.

Meantime the United States is also awaiting formal response from the entente powers to the disarmament proposals of Secretary Lansing, although the diplomatic representatives of these powers have indicated that their governments will reject the suggestion.

EMPIRE STATE DEMOCRATS WILL MEET THIS WEEK

O'Gorman to Declare Himself on the Senatorship.

New York, Feb. 21.—There is a great stir of activity in Democratic circles because of the preparations being made for the Democratic state convention at Syracuse on March 1, and there have been many conferences of leaders in regard to selecting a successor for United States Senator James O'Gorman, a candidate to run against Governor Whitman, or whoever is nominated by the Republicans, and a successor to William Church Osborn as Democratic state chairman.

Senator O'Gorman and Chairman Osborn will certainly be among the Democratic "big four," and the selection of George J. Meyer of Buffalo is regarded as practically certain. He is the chairman of the Erie county committee and is a wealthy brewer. For the fourth delegate-at-large the chances of Judge Cullen, Judge Parker and Mr. Untermyer are estimated as about equal.

The platform is being drafted largely by Senator Robert F. Wagner. It will attack the policies of Governor Whitman and the Republican legislature, and endorse the administration of President Wilson, commanding the president's international policies and approving his stand for preparedness.

The convention will be apt to reveal whether or not Senator O'Gorman's desires to succeed himself.

Leaders who assume to know Senator O'Gorman's attitude say that he does not wish to be re-elected and that he is perfectly willing to step aside and let someone else have the place. The man who is being most discussed as a possible successor to Senator O'Gorman is William Church Osborn.

THE WILD WEST

(By American Press)

Deming, N. M., Feb. 21.—Prisoners in the county jail here mutilated, locked the sheriff and his attendants in a cell, telephoned for an automobile and escaped in it, and later, in a battle with the sheriff and his posse, killed the sheriff. The prisoners told the garage keeper it was Sheriff Dwight Stevens talking and that the car was wanted to take a sick man to a hospital. The chauffeur was locked up with the sheriff and the prisoners escaped in the car after first looting the militia armory for rifles and ammunition. Later the sheriff secured his release and with a posse followed the prisoners. In a battle the sheriff was killed. Two of the escaped prisoners were murderers.

PREACHER WILL TRY TO SETTLE

(By American Press)

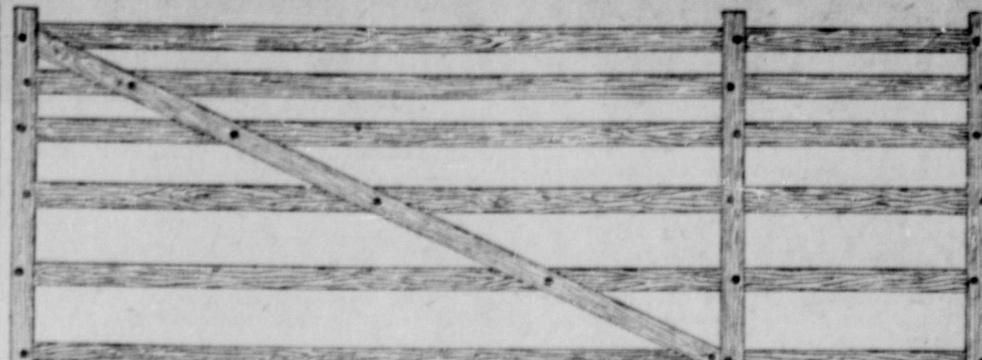

Philadelphia, Feb. 21.—Burdened by the financial strain of paying lawyers' fees for ever-recurring church trials and combatting injunctions in the civil courts, Rev. George Chalmers Richmond is reported to be almost ready to surrender. Mr. Richmond did not appear in the pulpit of St. John's Episcopal church, and some of his friends intimated that he would never preach in the church again. Mr. Richmond will hold a conference with his parishioners in St. John's parish house Wednesday night, when an important announcement affecting the future of St. John's parish may be forthcoming.

CHANGES ARE FAVORED IN THE INCOME TAX

SENATOR STONE IS TO DISCUSS SUB. BOAT ROW

Democrats of House Express Their Views.

REVENUES FOR DEFENSE

Members of Ways and Means Committee Would Have Income Tax, a Levy on Munitions and an Inheritance Tax Bear the Preparedness Burden—Republicans Suggest Upward Revision of Tariff.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Changes in the income tax law and a levy on munitions will likely be depended upon to raise the increased revenues necessary for carrying out the administration's national defense program.

This is indicated by a poll that has been made of the ways and means committee of the house, which originates all revenue legislation. A majority of that committee, including nearly all the Democrats, favor relying mostly on the income tax for necessary revenues, and a majority also are disposed to levy a tax in some form upon war munitions. There is also sentiment in the committee favoring an inheritance tax.

A notable feature of the poll is that there is no sentiment in favor of a tax on gasoline, a general levy on fabricated iron and steel or other items suggested by the administration.

While the Democratic party in congress, as evidenced by the ways and means committee, is intent upon making those with incomes bear the chief burden of the national defense expenditures, it is apparent the plans of some of the leaders to tap this source exclusively will be stubbornly opposed. It is evident, too, that there will be strong opposition within the Democratic party to any plan which contemplates merely a boosting of the surtax rates as applied to incomes over $10,000 a year. Influential Democrats will insist upon a lowering of the present income tax exemptions, so as to make the application of the tax more general.

The polls show that many members of the ways and means committee favor reducing the exemptions as well as raising the surtaxes. The New York delegation in congress will have to be reckoned with on this subject. The poll of all the members of that delegation who were in Washington showed that they are practically unanimous.

STILL COMING
(By American Press)

Columbus, Feb. 21.—It is said that a new quartet of candidates for delegates-at-large to the Republican convention will soon be announced. The new entrants, unless plans are changed within the next few days, it is stated, will be General J. Warren Keifer, Springfield; Miner G. Norton, Cleveland, state central committee man; Matt Claser, Cincinnati, and either C. L. Knight, Akron, or John J. Sullivan, Cleveland.

Issue to Receive an Airing This Week in the Senate.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Discussion from an administration viewpoint of the submarine issue with Germany will be undertaken in the senate this week. Democrats led by Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, have determined to meet what they term an effort on the part of the Republican senators to make a partisan issue of the situation that has arisen since the German admiralty's determination to sink all enemy merchant ships whether armed for offense or defense.

Senators Sterling and Lodge Republicans, discussed the subject last week, urging that for the United States to yield the right of Germany to sink defensively armed merchant ships would be an unneutral act and a step towards war. In announcing his purpose to address the senate, Senator Stone said he would answer some of the arguments made by the Republicans.

Preparing for his address, the Missouri senator has conferred with President Wilson and Secretary Lansing, and his views on the subject are being awaited with interest by members of both houses, who do not conceal the belief that the nation is facing the greatest diplomatic crisis since the beginning of the European war.

Mexican affairs also are to be aired again in the senate. Republican senators planning to attack the president's report on Senator Fall's resolution asking for information concerning the Carranza government.

Toledo, Feb. 21.—A sensation was sprung in the county's investigation into alleged graft affairs when it was learned that the room of Harry Bradbury, state secret service officer, had been entered and papers of all kinds were thrown about. It is believed that the powders were endeavoring to obtain papers of importance bearing on the investigation now being made.

WAGE QUESTION TO BE TAKEN UP

Anthracite Miners and Operators In Conference.

PAY INCREASE DEMANDED

Workers Want Twenty Per Cent Advance and Recognition of the Miners' Union—Hard Coal Men's Conference at New York to Be Followed by Meeting of Bituminous Miners and Operators.

New York, Feb. 21.—A joint conference of representatives of coal mine operators and mine workers is in session here. The representatives will endeavor to reach an agreement by which they can go on amicably working together after March 31, when the agreement now existing will expire.

During the first part of the week the anthracite miners and operators will endeavor to conclude their business. Beginning Thursday the bituminous miners and operators, who have been holding a convention in Mobile without success, will continue their efforts towards an understanding here.

The miners are asking an eight hour day, recognition of their union, and in the case of the anthracite workers a 20 per cent increase in wages. The bituminous workers are seeking a 10 per cent increase. There are other issues at stake, but they are of minor importance.

John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, who established headquarters here, issued a statement covering the demands of the miners and explaining why increased wages are essential to their existence. He was not hopeful that the operators will agree to the demands already drawn up, but he does believe that an ultimate compromise can be reported.

The operators have signified in a recent publicity campaign that it will be impossible for them to grant the two chief demands, namely higher wages and shorter hours, without increasing the retail price of coal considerably. Already they have informally refused to grant the demands.

Despite the fact that there is likely to be something of a deadlock from the very beginning of the conference, Mr. White does not think that a general strike will have to be called. He explains that the union has adopted a non-suspension policy, which means that so long as there is hope of a settlement a general strike will not be ordered.

"Conditions in the anthracite field have grown worse instead of better, because the cost of living has gone up faster than wages," said Mr. White. "The average anthracite mine worker gets far less than enough to support his family decently. Since 1902 wages have increased 5.6 per cent. The cost of food since that year has increased 17 per cent according to the United States bureau of labor statistics. Between 1903 and 1914 the wholesale price of clothing increased 23 per cent, according to the same authority."

Washington a Religious Man.

"Washington was many sided," Bishop Burch of New York said in a public address, "but there was a side to him which dominated all his other sides. It is a side of him of which we have heard little, and that was his deep religious faith. He was a true Christian. He read the service for the dead over the body of General Braddock. President Wilson tells us of a little child who remembered how Washington once read the Scriptures. I visited Valley Forge recently. In the library I found there a book of prayer. It was written and compiled by Washington for his own use. Even when Washington was pursuing his campaigns he never failed to attend church."

Washington and George III.

One of the most important letters of George Washington ever offered for sale in Great Britain was sold in London a few years ago for $900. It is three pages quarto, is dated "Mount Vernon, Feb. 5, 1789," and is addressed to Samuel Powell. In it Washington refers to George III's first attack of madness, saying: "Be the cause of the British king's insanity what it may, his situation of alive merit commiseration. Better, perhaps, would it have been for his nation, though not for ours (under present prospects) if the event had happened at the time." The letter was written the day after Washington was elected the first president of the United States.

George Washington's Helpmate. Of Martha Washington it has been said:

To know her well, Prolonged, exalted, bound enchantment's spell. For with affections warm, intense, refined She mixed such calm and holy strength of mind That, like heaven's image in the smiling brook, Celestial peace was pictured in her look.

Martha Washington, according to all accounts, was an ideal helpmate for the first president, of whom somebody has said, "Providence left him childless that he might be called the Father of His Country."

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scenic railroad, by George Storm, a newsboy. Known to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight train and of her father and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagruet, promoter. Following a collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight, Seagruet, his lawyer, interrupted by Helen while stealing General Holmes' survey plans of the line for the Tidewater, fatally wound General Holmes and escape. Storm and Helen chase the murderers on a light engine and capture them. Spike has hidden the plans and manages to inform Seagruet where they are cached.

Where he stood, unobserved by the others, he took out of a wallet drawn from his pocket a cutout from a shirt and reread a scroll written on it by Spike, his convict accomplice, advising him that the stolen survey was hidden under the south end of Little San Pablo bridge.

With some trivial excuse for absenting himself, Seagruet left the house,

He paddled her hand, rose and left her. Seagruet at a distance studied the outline of the slender figure and the striking silhouette of Helen's head and neck as she stood looking out on the rain-beaten landscape. He walked over to where she remained oblivious to his presence and ventured a few carefully chosen words of sympathy. Nothing so despicable, so pusillanimous as this had ever marked his career, but he had groomed himself for anything.

"I am in a position, Helen," he went on, "perhaps a better position than any among your father's friends, to take up his work where he left it off. His murderers are in jail—I will undertake to see to their punishment. His new line can be made a valuable property. I am willing and able to provide the means to put it through. But I am alone, as you know. I care for no one other than you—I've told you that. Let me take your troubles. Be my wife."

"I have told you," she said, looking down but speaking quick and firmly, "that I can't listen to you on that subject. Could you possibly expect me to do so at a moment like this—my father—" her voice faltered—"scarcely buried!"

got in his runabout car and started for the San Pablo bridge. He found the document where Spike had hidden it.

Helen, in the interval, conferring with her attorneys, and with Amos Rhinelander at hand to soften the blow as best he could, was learning by bit by bit the completeness of her father's financial ruin through his sudden death. In matter of fact, all that remained of his free assets was the recently allotted block of stock—now an item of merely nominal value—in the new cut-off line. Long after the attorney had gone, Rhinelander remained.

"It's not that the stock is worthless, Helen," he said—they were again together in the library. "If the new line is ever what your father hoped it would be, the investment may yet prove of the greatest value."

Human Sacrifices.

In battle the Aztecs strove to save life so that they could use their prisoners as human sacrifices to the gods. They had the art of ambush reduced to such a science that it was nothing unusual for them to bring home 25,000 prisoners after a campaign. Their battles were not fought for the sake of any principle, nor yet to gain territory.

They fought in order to capture prisoners, and the hot headed young soldiers were given wooden swords, for fear they might in the heat of battle unwillingly slay a foe. A dead enemy was already dead, and hence of no value for sacrificial purposes. Were the Aztecs humans? Well, not so that you could notice. But their destruction of prisoners on the altars of their beautiful temples was done in the name of religion and hence not reprehensible.

CONVERTS NEAR THE 650 MARK

Twenty-eight Additional Persons Hit Trail Saturday and Sunday—Bootleggers Denounced in Sermon on Booze—Meetings All This Week.

The total number of converts at the close of the great mass meeting at the Sunnyside tabernacle Sunday night was 638. Saturday 8 went forward and Sunday 20 more were enrolled.

The total attendance at the meetings Sunday afternoon and Sunday night was estimated at almost 4500, which is perhaps the largest number of people ever gathered together under one roof in a single day in the history of Washington C. H. Every seat was occupied, scores stood in the aisles, while others went home unable to find a seat. At night the crowd was fully as large.

In the afternoon Prof. Troy and Miss Anna Kier sang a beautiful duet.

Rev. Grove, pastor of the Christian church, and Rev. J. V. Stone, pastor of Grace M. E. church, occupied chairs in the pulpit. Each made a talk, strongly endorsing the great work being accomplished by Evangelist Willhite and his musical director, Prof. Troy.

Evangelist Willhite gave his sermon on "Booze," and those who heard it voted it one of the strongest temperance discourses ever delivered here. He said there were bootleggers in the audience wearing long faces. "We know who you are and what you are doing," shouted the evangelist, "and if you don't show an inclination to quit that business and lead a better life by coming down here and getting right with God, your names will be turned over to the mayor for investigation."

The speaker said that a Washington C. H. man almost died after drinking some bootleg whiskey. A doctor sent some of the stuff to Columbus and an analysis showed it to contain 60 per cent gasoline.

"You old soaks are spending more than $5 a gallon too much for your gasoline," he declared.

There will be meetings every night this week. It is expected that the meetings may close next Sunday night. There will be no afternoon meetings this week as it was planned to do.

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22d.

A RARE combination of statesmanship and military genius; an unusual embodiment of tenacity, unshakable courage; a keen and militant sense of justice; these were the great virtues of George Washington.

They represent the spirit of fairness which we should strive for in our business relations which should manifest itself in the sale of good merchandise, in the giving of values, in the guarantee of satisfaction. In that spirit we are trying to run this store.

CRAIG BROSSTILL AFTER THE ROSS COUNTY WOLVES

Parties of armed men are still scouring the countryside in east Ross county searching for five wolves which are at large in that locality.

One of the parties found a dog with his throat torn open and the bones of a rabbit nearby, and other evidence that the pack of wolves had been at work, but so far the hunters have not located the marauders which have been doing so much damage to live stock and fowls, and which upon two occasions have attacked farmers.

Quickly Stopped Mr. Clark's Hang-on Cough.

We have seen right here in Washington Court House such wonderful results from the use of Vinol in such cases, that we agree to return the money of anyone who tries it and does not get the same results Mr. Clark did. He says:

"I used Vinol for a chronic cough and hard cold which it seemed impossible to get rid of. At nights I would cough violently so I couldn't sleep. I learned about Vinol through a friend who had used it at the house where I am living, and the result of its use in my case was that the hard cold was soon well and the chronic cough disappeared in very short order." F. J. Clark, 9 Pearl St., Amsterdam, N. Y.

It's the tonic iron, the extract of fresh cod-livers without oil and beef peptone contained in Vinol that makes it such a successful remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis. Try it on our guarantee. Blackmer & Tanquary. Advt.

CZAR'S ARMIES ARE ENVELOPING MOSLEM FORCES

Military Experts Declare Turkish Armies' Position Extremely Perilous.

Russians Advancing on Both North and the South, Hoping to Reach Bagdad Railroad in Advance of Turks.

British Call Class No. 1, Comprising Young Bachelors to the Colors.

By Associated Press. London, February 21.—The rapid advance of the Russian forces in Turkish Armenia following the fall of Erzerum is complicating the task of the Turks in efforts to reform their scattered forces.

From the Russian headquarters in the Caucasus comes the report today that two Turkish army corps which were on their way to reinforce the garrison at Erzerum turned back when they learned that the fortress had fallen.

Assuming the accuracy of this report, the Turks in eastern Armenia have lost the prospect of important help in extricating themselves from what appears to be a perilous position.

Unofficial accounts of the Russian movements record an advance both to the south and to the north.

The movement to the north is in the direction of Diarbekr and the Bagdad railway, 50 miles beyond.

The southward movement is in an effort to cut off the retreat of the Turkish forces which have been operating along the Black Sea coast.

Petrograd dispatches indicate that definite results are earliest expected from the movement to the north.

Far-reaching results would follow the successes of the Russians toward the south, it would appear, as the cutting of the Bagdad railway would sever communication with Syria and point to the possibility of close cooperation with the British down the Tigris River from Bagdad, in operations for the taking of that city.

Great Britain has called to the colors Class No. 1 of the recruits under the military service act, comprising the youngest of the bachelors. The calling up of the single men has now been completed.

A minor success for the British on the German East Africa border is announced here.

CRONES STILL IN NEW YORK

New York, February 21.—Jean Crones, who is being sought by the police throughout the East and Middle West for attempting to poison Archbishop Mundelein and three hundred other guests at a banquet in Chicago, is still in this city, authorities believe.

A letter addressed to the "Chief of Police," in which he stated he was returning to Chicago, was turned over to local authorities by the postoffice last night.

Twice today, however, a New York newspaper received telephone calls from a man who claimed to be Crones, asserting that he expected to remain in New York until Thursday.

COMMITTEE AGREES TO PROGRAM

Tentative Agreement to Increase Land Forces of U. S. Is Agreed Upon.

By Associated Press.

Washington, February 21.—The House Military Committee today agreed upon a tentative bill for the reorganization of the land forces of the United States.

The bill proposed federalizing the national guard, increasing the regular army to 134,000 men, doubling the field artillery, increasing the engineer corps by fifteen companies, creating four squadrons of aircraft and an entirely new corps for cadets from colleges having military training.

The committee authorized Chairman Hay to draft the bill and have it ready for the committee next Wednesday or Thursday, with the understanding that amendments meeting the individual views of members may be offered later.

The committee agreed that Congress has the constitutional right to take over the national guard by legislative enactment.

GERMAN CRISIS IN GRAVE STATE

Latest Announced Policy of German Powers Contains No Assurance for the Future.

Lusitania Incident, Germany Insists, Deals Only With the Past.

Germans Refuse to Exempt From Attacks Merchantmen Carrying Guns, if Only "For Defense."

By Associated Press.

Washington, February 21.—State Department officials said today they consider the submarine issue with Germany still in a grave state, because the Lusitania agreement, in the light of the newly announced submarine policy of the Germanic powers, contains no assurances for the future.

The situation created by the announced intention of sinking armed merchant ships without warning after February 29, officials said, was still in the abstract and was being considered as such.

The Lusitania agreement itself, as it now stands, they explained, merely treats of the past; and although it gives all in that respect for which the United States has contended, officials do not feel that it clearly guarantees against another such disaster.

It was demonstrated that the Lusitania was wholly unarmed, but the United States has since taken the position that it considers a ship armed for defensive purposes only, and a ship carrying no guns, in the same class.

The German contention is that under the new conditions of naval warfare, brought about by the advent of the submarine, a merchant ship to be immune from attack should carry no arms whatever.

GERMANY OBJECTING

By Associated Press.

Washington, February 21.—Representations against the presence of United States Deputy Marshals on the captured British liner "Appam" were made today by the German Embassy. The presence of the marshals was objected to, it was said, because it was feared some friction might develop.

Prince von Hartzenfeldt counselor for the German Embassy, was waiting to discuss the situation with Counselor Polk when Counselor Barclay, of the British Embassy, was by mistake shown into the room where Prince von Hartzenfeldt was waiting.

If the two men recognized each other, neither betrayed that he felt he was in the presence of an enemy.

IDEAL CUBA AND BEAUTIFUL HAVANA CITY

Mr. Will S. Ford Writes for Herald Readers His Impressions of the "Pearl of the Antilles," and the "Paris of America."

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 12, 1916.

To The Herald: —

"Thinking your readers might be interested in a few facts concerning Cuba and its metropolis, Havana, inspires me to express a few thoughts concerning them.

Robt. Rogers and I started on Feb. 2 for a warmer climate and after visiting the usual Florida resorts, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Palm Beach and Miami, decided to see something real tropical, strange and foreign.

Boarding one of Flags "over the sea" railroad trains at Miami, Fla., in five hours we had reached Key West, Fla., the farthest key out in the Gulf of Mexico, crossed arms of the sea on cement piers by the dozens, ranging from 500 feet to seven and one-half miles in length, wondering at the skill and courage of man to build a railroad where nature offered such formidable obstacles. Our hundred and sixty-five miles, and every one of them intensely interesting to anyone, either mere sightseers or more close observer.

Everyone knows something of Key West; the fact of its location so far from main land and on an island and the most tropical city of the United States being of first importance. Here we saw monitors, torpedo boat destroyers and submarines, and had the pleasure of going aboard and having everything explained, most interestingly.

Then for Havana, Cuba, only 90 miles away. A foreign land, a foreign language, and yet so close to our shores, ruled by Spain for centuries, whose power, when the Stars and Stripes were lowered and the Cuban flag flung to the breeze a few years ago, passed away forever. The President must be a native born Cuban, and to hold any political office, one must be a citizen of Cuba, of course.

The Cubans like Americans. They Spaniards simply don't see you.

Cuba, nearly 1,000 miles from east to west, population two and one-half millions, all varieties of soil, mountains as high as 5000 feet, an ideal climate, truly named the "Pearl of the Antilles."

Havana, population 375,000, the seat of government, the center of wealth and luxury, picturesque, strange and interesting every minute of our sojourn within her environs; rightly named "the Paris of America." The old city and the new. Narrow streets and beautiful wide avenues. The costly, gorgeous home of the wealthy class side by side with the poorest home and a mixture of color in the population beyond anyone, even a native, to marvel. Very little race distinction here.

Political graft is here, and the home of one man, for four years a member of the House of Representatives, was particularly pointed out, that was poor when he entered on his term and accumulated enough to build a house worth $60,000.

Sugar and tobacco is the source of wealth and many heads of these industries live in homes that are veritable palaces. The owners drive in foreign cars costing from $2000 to $7,000 and dress to correspond, their women outrivalling those of the states in their many colors worn and richness of texture.

American made cars are coming now and one sees Buicks, Hudsons an occasional Packard and Fords everywhere. Three years ago there were none in Havana, now 25,000.

The license for cars is rated on horse power and is from $50.00 to $75.00. Chauffeurs' license $12.00. Gasoline 40c and 45c for the best and has no effect on the way they ramble. They have speed limits and also. Funerals are an interesting rules of driving, but no one pays sight to the layman, and are of much attention to them. Of course four classes according to the standing and wealth of their family.

Living is from 25 to 50 per cent higher here than in the states, if one ket is carried on the shoulders of wants to live as he is used to doing the friends or relatives. If drawn there, on account of the duty, but by horses the number of horses in life can be sustaining very cheaply by the poor. The climate is kind eight or ten being used.

Havana has many hospitals, wealthy clubs and fine government buildings. The national opera house costing three million dollars, built of sand stone and elaborately carved resembling a gentleman of our Colonial times, as is also the guard fixtures in Italian marble.

THE AMERICAN TOBACCO COMPANY

Times are said to be hard in Havana now, for tobacco is down and out on account of the war. This affects the business in every way for I am told that cigar makers spend as fast as they make, and the girl workers delight to ride up and down the Prado, Havana's beautiful promenade, in carriages, spending their last peso, with no thought for the future.

Sugar cane is worth $9.00 a ton this year and has been as low as $4.50 in past times, so Americans with sugar stock will surely realize gratifying returns this year. One such owner told me he would get 100 per cent dividend on his holdings.

So much for gay Havana and the life and habits of her population. The serious side, also might be of interest. General Wood, during the American occupation did much good for Havana. He made a famous driveway along the water front; erected a manual training school or gymnasium, cleaned up the city, burials take place from 4 to 6 p.m. only and I have seen them entering the gates on the trot, driver whip in hand, white and black horses. Infants and men and women, sometimes a very short service in the chapel then a dart for the grave, all in a hurry, so uncommon to this country, as if anxious to get away from the surroundings.

Go to Havana. You will enjoy yourself as I have done. Everything so strange and entirely foreign. Learn a little Spanish, which is not difficult, put up with Spanish cooking and being robbed with high prices and on your return be glad you went, and also happy that you live in good old U. S. A.

WHEN SABINA WON THE GAME

That war—and particularly victory, is the greatest of inspiration for the poet to wag his pen is again days after the funeral.

Until a year ago it was the custom to place all caskets on a marble slab inside the cemetery gate where the casket was opened by an official to be sure if the person was really and truly dead. The poor are buried, but their relatives must pay a yearly rent, and when not paid their bodies are removed, cast into a tomb for the purpose, and another put in the same grave.

This time the demonstration comes from a Sabina Bard, unnamed, unknobbed and unknown, and the aforesaid tickler of the muses breaks out into rhyme, as follows:

SOME GAME.

ANOTHER JOLT

(By American Press)

London, Feb. 21.—The plan of aiding Belgium to feed herself by rehabilitating the industries of the country under control of the American commission for relief in Belgium has failed, according to a letter written by Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign secretary, to M. Hymans, the Belgian minister here, because the Germans thus far have failed to reply to the request for guarantees that raw materials and manufactured goods will not be seized by the occupying armies.

The American relief commission some time ago proposed that certain kinds of noncontraband raw materials should be permitted to pass through the British blockade into Belgium. goods manufactured from them to be re-exported. It was proposed that the balance of trade thus created in favor of Belgium should be invested in food of Belgium should be invested in food, thus putting the population, as far as possible, upon a self-supporting basis and at the same time checking the growing demoralization due to long unemployment.

An Unenviable Position

That something is wrong somewhere is conclusive from a statement of the bare facts.

The great state of Ohio, with a cash balance of millions of dollars in its treasury account earning thousands of dollars of interest annually on its cash balances with the banks throughout the state, refuses to pay its accounts for advertising the last state fair.

The state by reason of the attitude of the present administration is placed in the very undesirable position of being abundantly able to pay and then deliberately repudiating its honest debts.

The attitude of the state in that particular has led to very unusual, but wholly justified, action by the newspaper organizations of the state.

At a meeting in Columbus Friday of last week, the organized newspapers of the state signified their intention of refusing to accept any more advertising matter for the state fair until the amount of the state's debt was paid.

Last year the newspapers of Ohio carried such advertising matter as the state authorities ordered and waited for their money.

After the service was rendered the state could and would not pay.

No wonder the state is put on the dead beat list by the newspapers.

Why not?

It's a flagrant refusal to pay just debts.

The people of the state of Ohio will not approve the action of the administration in repudiating its honest debts even though mismanagement of the state fair left a deficit.

Individuals cannot make up a deficit in one fund by repudiation, and holding tight to others, neither can the state, do so, honestly.

Another Case of Principle

A case of unexcelled stubbornness is reported from our neighboring city of Portsmouth—one of the best, if not the best, city in the whole Ohio valley west of Pittsburgh.

According to news reports a wealthy widow resident of that city had been ordered by the board of health to comply with certain regulations. She refused and was arrested and prosecuted. After conviction she was fined twenty-five dollars.

Although reputed to be worth a cool hundred thousand dollars, she refused to pay the fine and was committed to jail.

Firm in her determination to stick it out "for a principle," she became the jail mate of a young colored girl "in" on a charge of incorrigibility and a white woman of the lowest walks of life.

A "principle" that cannot be vindicated in the courts of the land is very much akin to muleish stubbornness and entitles the one who stands convicted to such principle to slight sympathy.

That's the kind of principle that brings nations to war and leads to the flagrant violation of all the laws of society.

Once an individual becomes so entirely devoted to principles of his own manufacturing he becomes an outcast and should disappear to some desert island where no one will go contrary to his superior brand of principles.

Methods of Railroad Regulation Need Reconstruction

By A. J. COUNTY, Assistant to the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad

PUBLIC regulation is so confused that it is impossible to concentrate responsibility. It imposes on the one hand increased taxes, higher wages and requires standards of service and facilities that necessitate the expenditure of unproductive capital running into millions of dollars every year for each of the large railroad systems, while, on the other hand, any tendency to permit adequate railroad profits has been decidedly slow.

Unless this condition is changed by intelligent and courageous regulatory bodies we will reach a position where the ability of the railroads to sustain their credit and perform their full duty to the public is taken from them. Public opinion has recognized that condition, and an ENCOURAGING SIGN IS THAT THE WAVE OF ILL CONSIDERED RAILROAD LEGISLATION AND REGULATION IS ABATING.

No body of men realize more clearly than railroad managers that their companies are dependent for their credit and prosperity upon rendering good public service based on reasonable rates. This is evidenced by the character and regularity of service furnished, which in magnitude and low transportation charges is not excelled in any other country in

Poetry For Today

TRAGIC TALK.

Lying one day 'neath my flivver,
Flat on my back in the road,
I tried to tinker it up so
I wouldn't have to be towed.

All things replaced save one cotter,
Vainly I figured and thumbed
And every moment kept growing
More sweated, gritted and gummed

Nobly I stifled my feelings,
Feigning the thing was a play,
Setting my teeth on my patience
So it might not get away.

Fifty-nine times that same cotter
Slipped and fell out on my face;
Fifty-nine times I returned it
Patiently back to its place.

Sixty!—and still it continued;
In me a hurricane brewed.
Sixty, and up—how much longer
Could the wild storm be subdued?

Seventy! Then I exploded,
Ripped out a sulphurous word,
Up at the blast went my flivver,
Up and away, like a bird!

Never since then have I seen it;
Don't care to see it—the day
It strikes the earth it will be just
One complete wreck, anyway.

THE STAR of LIBERTYWashington's Flag.

A VALUABLE and interesting relic of George Washington now on exhibition in the Valley Forge Museum of American History is Washington's headquarters flag. His marquee was purchased by the museum after having been exhibited for years in the National museum at Washington. It was his first headquarters flag and was used by him throughout the war of the Revolution.

Now through the courtesy of Miss Frances B. Lovell, a descendant of Betty Lewis, the sister of Washington, the flag of the commander in chief of the armies of the patriots is exhibited with the famous war tent.

For years the flag was a treasured heirloom in Miss Lovell's family, and few knew of its existence. Upon her father's death she became its owner. It was known to the family as "Washington's headquarters flag."

"That it is the unidentified flag of Peale's portraits there can be no doubt," said the Rev. W. Herbert Burk, founder of the Valley Forge museum, who obtained the treasured relic. "The flag of one picture," says the Rev. Mr. Burk, "is a blue Jack with thirteen stars. The flag now in the museum here is a light blue silk Jack with thirteen stars, the blue faded and the stars yellow with age."

The flag is thirty-six inches long and twenty-eight inches wide. The heading is of homespun linen, with three eyelets worked with thread. The stars are six pointed, double stitched, and the silk back of them has been cut out to show the stars on both sides. The stars are not arranged in a circle, but in lines following the crosses of the British flag, which, the Rev. Mr. Burk said, seems to have been the earlier arrangement.

SAFE DOOR IS BLOWN TO ATOMS BY NITROGLYCERINE

Expert Yeggs Crack Safe in Scott Brothers' General Store at Bloomingburg and Get Away With Small Amount in Cash and Several Watches—Used Automobile in Making Getaway.

After shattering the safe door in the Scott Brothers general store in Bloomingburg, Sunday night, unknown yeggs who visited the town in an automobile made their get-away, taking with them $20 in change, several cheap watches and one gold watch.

The yeggs used nitroglycerine and evidently had a liberal supply on hands, as the safe door was torn to bits, leaving the interior of the safe exposed. The men had gained entrance by the front door, which had been jimmied. The trick was turned about two o'clock Monday morning, and while the moon was shining and a light was burning inside the store.

Some hammers and chisels had been obtained at the Tom Elliott blacksmith shop, where an automobile was noticed to stop about midnight, or later. Citizens heard an explosion about two o'clock, but thought someone had fired a pistol, and paid no attention to the noise.

Soon after the noise an automobile was heard to speed hurriedly out of the town.

Not a single clew was left behind, and no suspicious characters had been about the town.

Two years ago the store was robbed and at that time a soap-cup was found attached to the safe door, but the men had been frightened away before they could explode the nitroglycerine.

UNION MEETING HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

The young people's church organizations of the city united in a splendid union meeting at the First Presbyterian church, Sunday evening.

The auditorium was filled and the gathering an excellent proof that there was real live working interest among a large number of Washington young people.

The union meeting was instigated by Mr. Albert Barney, president of the C. E. Society of the Presbyterian church, and the program under his direction.

Prof. O. K. Probascio filled the role of leader.

Mrs Kathleen Davis played a pretty opening solo; Miss Edith Gardner and Mr. L. L. Bowman favored the audience with vocal solos.

The subject was "How to put the Bible into Life," and short talks were made by Mr. L. E. Spray, of the Christian church; Mrs. M. O. Ireland or the McNair Memorial church, Rev. Stone, of Grace church; Mr. Patton of St. Andrews Episcopal church, Mr. H. Hicks, First Baptist and Prof. Probascio of the First Presbyterian.

The church had been beautifully decorated with flags and bunting by Elmer Zimmerman, of Mrs. R. S. Quinn's sunday school class of young men, and his assistants, in honor of Washington's Birthday. This class held a special memorial service for Washington and Lincoln in the morning, at which Hon. C. A. Reid made a splendid short address.

ENTERTAINMENT WAS BEAUTIFULLY GIVEN

Forty children of the kindergarten, first and second grades, of Central, under Misses Bell, Haines, Pinkerton and Montgomery, celebrated their birthdays with a beautiful George Washington party in the high school corridors.

The children were costumed with red, white and blue sashes, white satin paper hats with tiny shields in the national colors, and took part in a Patriotic Pageant that was extremely pretty and patriotic.

There was a very attractive George Washington entertainment and patriotic songs sung by the hundred and fifty children of the different rooms.

The children grouped to form a living flag in effective finale.

At the close of the program the "birthdayites" were given a treat of candy.

Two hundred and fifty visitors crowded the corridor and thoroughly enjoyed the pretty entertainment.

DOG NUISANCE ON THE INCREASE

The number of stray dogs in the uptown district, or in fact throughout the city, apparently is on the increase, and a large number of the animals are not wearing collars bearing the license tag required by law.

However, the dogs which frequent the uptown district and are a constant source of annoyance to pedestrians and persons in vehicles are tagged.

Mayor Oster, in the near future, expects to take steps toward eliminating the ever increasing nuisance.

YOUR CREDIT RATING IS BEING TAKEN NOW

No person who owes neglected, past-due accounts can receive a satisfactory credit rating.

The credit reports to be turned in on March 2 will show how promptly each person pays his or her bills.

The merchant, physician or dentist is always entitled to his money when it becomes due.

That a debtor is "worth" an account is a comforting fact, but the merchant never can use the money tied up in any account until the account is actually paid.

"He pays his bills promptly" is the one report which insures good credit in Washington.

A few folks forget—to forget to pay accounts when they are due. This advertisement is printed for their benefit and gives them an opportunity to pay up before their credit rating is called in on March 2.

BEAUTIFUL CANTATA RENDERED BY CHOIR

Both auditorium and Sunday school room of the First Presbyterian church were filled Sunday night, when the choir rendered a cantata, "Mary of Bethany," and a silver offering was taken for the volunteer singers of the choir.

The setting of the cantata was unusual and the arrangement and recitative features quite effective.

The music was beautiful, its melodious harmonies splendidly rendered in choruses, of exceptional finish and expression, and in solos.

Miss Hollingsworth sang a brilliant introductory solo, "Jerusalem Awaken," followed by Dr. L. P. Howell in a beautiful tenor solo, "God is Peace." Dr. Howell was in exceptionally good voice.

The leading parts in the cantata were "Mary," taken with effective interpretation by Miss Ada Woodward; "Martha," by Mrs. Mary G. Burgett, who assisted the volunteers, and "Lazarus," by Mr. R. R. Kibler, who met heavy demands in solos, duets and trios, with the soprano and contralto.

Miss Woodward was suffering from a severe cold but her voice was very sweet and beautifully modulated in the plaintive strains.

The rich timbre of Mrs. Burgett's voice was well adapted to her role.

Mrs. Lillie G. Davis accompanied the cantata with perfect accord and added several beautiful organ solos to the program.

The chancel was artistically decorated with potted plants and cut flowers.

BOMBS DROPPED ON COAST TOWNS

German Airships In Another Daylight Raid.

BUT LITTLE DAMAGE DONE

Germans Succeed In Capturing British Position North of Ypres, but Are Repulsed When They Cross Canal and Attack the French—Russians Striving to Head Off Fleeing Turkish Army.

London, Feb. 21.—Four German seaplanes made a raid over the east and southeast coasts of England, according to an official announcement made by the British war office. The total casualties are given as two men and one boy killed and one marine wounded. Considerable material damage was done to private property. The raid occurred Sunday forenoon. Many bombs were dropped.

A feature of the official account is the frank admission that British aircraft, one naval plane and two aeroplanes, which ascended to attack the raiders, failed to reach them. It appears the German planes are capable of ascending to an extraordinary height.

The war office states that two bi-planes, after circling over the town of Lowestoft, in Kent, "rose to a great height and seemingly vanished." Fifteen minutes later they reappeared over the town and then flew to the east.

At Lowestoft it develops only three bombs hit buildings. Others fell on waste ground, into gardens, on the beach and into the sea, none of them doing any damage of military importance.

The Germans have been operating along the Yser canal in Belgium, to the north of Ypres. From the British 350 meters of position were captured and held, despite hand grenade attacks to recapture it. After a heavy bombardment the Germans attempted to cross the canal and occupy French positions, and several groups did succeed in making their way to this line trench. They, however, were immediately driven back. British to the south of Loos in a lively engagement succeeded in making an advance to the edge of a mine crater held by the Germans.

The French in Champagne between the Meuse and Moselle rivers and to the west of the forest of Apremont, have bombarded successfully German positions, while in the Argonne forest a mine exploded by the French shattered the German works.

Only isolated engagements have taken place on the Russian front. On the Austro-Italian line the artillery duels continue.

AUSTRIANS CONTINUE ADVANCE.

Continuing their advance in Albania, the Austro-Hungarians report the capture near Bazar-Sjak, a short distance northeast of Durazzo, of an advanced Italian position. This is the first indication that the Italians were operating so far north in Albania, the belief having prevailed that their activities had been confined to the locality adjacent to Avlona.

That progress is being made by the Teutonic allies in the direction of Avlona seemingly is shown by the report that the Albanians who are fighting with them have occupied the town of Berat, situated about thirty-one miles northeast of Avlona.

The Russian army which captured Erzerum, in Armenia, is endeavoring to cut off the retreat of the Turks, who are retiring with as much speed

EMPIRE STATE DEMOCRATS WILL MEET THIS WEEK

O'Gorman to Declare Himself on the Senatorship.

New York, Feb. 21.—There is a great stir of activity in Democratic circles because of the preparations being made for the Democratic state convention at Syracuse on March 1, and there have been many conferences of leaders in regard to selecting a successor for United States Senator James O'Gorman, a candidate to run against Governor Whitman, or whoever is nominated by the Republicans, and a successor to William Church Osborn as Democratic state chairman.

Senator O'Gorman and Chairman Osborn will certainly be among the Democratic "big four," and the selection of George J. Meyer of Buffalo is regarded as practically certain. He is the chairman of the Erie county committee and is a wealthy brewer. For the fourth delegate-at-large the chances of Judge Cullen, Judge Parker and Mr. Untermyer are estimated as about equal.

The platform is being drafted largely by Senator Robert F. Wagner. It will attack the policies of Governor Whitman and the Republican legislature, and endorse the administration of President Wilson, commanding the president's international policies and approving his stand for preparedness.

The convention will be apt to reveal whether or not Senator O'Gorman's desires to succeed himself. Leaders who assume to know Senator O'Gorman's attitude say that he does not wish to be re-elected and that he is perfectly willing to step aside and let someone else have the place. The man who is being most discussed as a possible successor to Senator O'Gorman is William Church Osborn.

THE CAPTORS PRISONERS

(By American Press)

Norfolk, Feb. 21.—Lieutenant Berg, commanding the captured British liner Appam, practically made prisoners of the two United States deputy marshals placed on his ship by order of the federal court, following proceedings brought by the African Steam Navigation company of Liverpool to secure possession of the ship. He did not give the two Americans food and forbade them from going about the ship. They were obliged to remain afloat and were practically under guard. Lieutenant Berg will hold a conference with representatives of the German embassy.

Mr. Richmond did not appear in the pulpit of St. John's Episcopal church, and some of his friends intimated that he would never preach in the church again. Mr. Richmond will hold a conference with his parishioners in St. John's parish house Wednesday night, when an important announcement affecting the future of St. John's parish may be forthcoming.

CHANGES ARE FAVORED IN THE INCOME TAX

SENATOR STONE IS TO DISCUSS SUB. BOAT ROW

Democrats of House Express Their Views.

REVENUES FOR DEFENSE

Members of Ways and Means Committee Would Have Income Tax, a Levy on Munitions and an Inheritance Tax Bear the Preparedness Burden—Republicans Suggest Upward Revision of Tariff.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Changes in the income tax law and a levy on munitions will likely be depended upon to raise the increased revenues necessary for carrying out the administration's national defense program.

This is indicated by a poll that has been made of the ways and means committee of the house, which originates all revenue legislation. A majority of that committee, including nearly all the Democrats, favor relying mostly on the income tax for necessary revenues, and a majority also are disposed to levy a tax in some form upon war munitions. There is also sentiment in the committee favoring an inheritance tax.

A notable feature of the poll is that there is no sentiment in favor of a tax on gasoline, a general levy on fabricated iron and steel or other items suggested by the administration.

While the Democratic party in congress, as evidenced by the ways and means committee, is intent upon making those with incomes bear the chief burden of the national defense expenditures, it is apparent the plans of some of the leaders to tap this source exclusively will be stubbornly opposed. It is evident, too, that there will be strong opposition within the Democratic party to any plan which contemplates merely a boosting of the surtax rates as applied to incomes over $10,000 a year. Influential Democrats will insist upon a lowering of the present income tax exemptions, so as to make the application of the tax more general.

The polls show that many members of the ways and means committee favor reducing the exemptions as well as raising the surtaxes. The New York delegation in congress will have to be reckoned with on this subject.

The poll of all the members of that delegation who were in Washington showed that they are practically unanimous.

inous in opposing further increases in the income tax unless there is a lowering of the exemptions and a more equitable distribution of the burden.

New York state last year paid more than $17,000,000 in income taxes, nearly half of the total amount turned into the treasury from this source. At the same time the state contributed more than $10,000,000, or one quarter of the yield, from the corporation tax.

The Republican members of the ways and means committee believe that national defense revenues should be raised by an upward revision of the tariff. As the Democrats will not assent to this, the Republicans will be obliged to take their choice from changes in the income tax, a tax on war munitions and an inheritance tax. Some of the Republicans will support a program of taxation containing one or more of these features.

Representative Kitchin, the Democratic leader and chairman of the ways and means committee, believes the only practical way of raising the money for defense is by changes in the income tax law.

WAGE QUESTION TO BE TAKEN UP

Anthracite Miners and Operators In Conference.

PAY INCREASE DEMANDED

Workers Want Twenty Per Cent Advance and Recognition of the Miners' Union—Hard Coal Men's Conference at New York to Be Followed by Meeting of Bituminous Miners and Operators.

New York, Feb. 21.—A joint conference of representatives of coal mine operators and mine workers is in session here. The representatives will endeavor to reach an agreement by which they can go on amicably working together after March 31, when the agreement now existing will expire.

During the first part of the week the anthracite miners and operators will endeavor to conclude their business. Beginning Thursday the bituminous miners and operators, who have been holding a convention in Mobile without success, will continue their efforts towards an understanding here.

The miners are asking an eight hour day, recognition of their union, and in the case of the anthracite workers a 20 per cent increase in wages. The bituminous workers are seeking a 10 per cent increase. There are other issues at stake, but they are of minor importance.

John P. White, president of the United Mine Workers, who established headquarters here, issued a statement covering the demands of the miners and explaining why increased wages are essential to their existence. He was not hopeful that the operators will agree to the demands already drawn up, but he does believe that an ultimate compromise can be reported.

The operators have signified in a recent publicity campaign that it will be impossible for them to grant the two chief demands, namely higher wages and shorter hours, without increasing the retail price of coal considerably. Already they have informally refused to grant the demands.

Despite the fact that there is likely to be something of a deadlock from the very beginning of the conference, Mr. White does not think that a general strike will have to be called. He explains that the union has adopted a no-suspension policy, which means that so long as there is hope of a settlement a general strike will not be ordered.

Washington a Religious Man.

"Washington was many-sided," Bishop Burch of New York said in a public address, "but there was a side to him which dominated all his other sides. It is a side of him of which we have heard little, and that was his deep religious faith. He was a true Christian. He read the service for the dead over the body of General Bradock. President Wilson tells us of a little child who remembered how Washington once read the Scriptures. I visited Valley Forge recently. In the library I found there a book of prayer. It was written and compiled by Washington for his own use. Even when Washington was pursuing his campaigns he never failed to attend church."

Washington and George III.

One of the most important letters of George Washington ever offered for sale in Great Britain was sold in London a few years ago for $900. It is three pages quarto, is dated "Mount Vernon, Feb. 5, 1759," and is addressed to Samuel Powell. In it Washington refers to George III's first attack of madness, saying: "Be the cause of the British king's insanity what it may, his situation if alive merits commiseration. Better, perhaps, would it have been for his nation, though not for ours (under present prospects) if the event had happened at the time." The letter was written the day after Washington was elected the first president of the United States.

Edward Everett.—From beneath that humble roof went forth the intrepid and unselfish warrior, the magistrate who knew no glory but his country's good. To that he returned, happiest when his work was done. There he lived in noble simplicity; there he died in glory and peace. While it stands the latest generations of the grateful children of America will make this pilgrimage to it as to a shrine, and when it shall fall, if fall it must, the memory and the name of Washington shall shed an eternal glory on the spot.

John Sherman.—General Washington is a typical American and will always stand in American history without peer or rival.

Rev. Dr. Philip Schaff.—For sound judgment, integrity, symmetry and commanding dignity of character he has no superior among great men.

Washington Irving.—He early acquired the magic of method which itself works wonders.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a narrow, winding road, by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight fireman, and of her father and his son, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Maguire, promoter, from a threatened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight. Safe and unharmed, employed by Seagruel, his lawyer, interrupted by Helen while stealing the line for the Tidewater, fatally wounded General Holmes and escape. Storm and Helen chase the murderers on a light engine and trap Spike, who has hidden the plans and manages to inform Seagruel where they are cached.

Where he stood, unobserved by the others, he took out of a wallet drawn from his pocket a cuff cut from a shirt and reread a scrawl written on it by Spike, his convict accomplice, advising him that the stolen survey was hidden under the south end of Little San Pablo bridge.

With some trivial excuse for absenting himself, Seagruel left the house, Gave Helen the Message She Asked For.

got in his runabout car and started for the San Pablo bridge. He found the document where Spike had hidden it.

Helen, in the interval, conferring with her attorneys, and with Amos Rhinelander at hand to soften the blow as best he could, was learning bit by bit the completeness of her father's financial ruin through his sudden death. In matter of fact, all that remained of his free assets was the recently allotted block of stock—now an item of merely nominal value—in the new cut-off line. Long after the attorney had gone, Rhinelander remained.

"It's not that the stock is worthless, Helen," he said—they were again together in the library. "If the new line is ever what your father hoped it would be, the investment may yet prove of the greatest value."

Human Sacrifices.

In battle the Aztecs strove to save life so that they could use their prisoners as human sacrifices to the gods.

They had the art of ambush reduced to such a science that it was nothing unusual for them to bring home 25,000 prisoners after a campaign. Their battles were not fought for the sake of any principle, nor yet to gain territory.

They fought in order to capture prisoners, and the hot headed young soldiers were given wooden swords, for fear they might in the heat of battle unwillingly slay a foe. A dead enemy was already dead, and hence of no value for sacrificial purposes. Were the Aztec humans? Well, not so that you could notice. But their destruction of prisoners on the altars of their beautiful temples was done in the name of religion and hence not reprehensible.

Terrors.

Bug originally meant a goblin. The Welsh word bug signifies ghost. The Hebrew word, which in Psalm xii, 5, is represented by terror, was in the early translations rendered bug, the verse reading, "Thou shalt not need to be afraid of any bugs by night."

CONVERTS NEAR THE 650 MARK

Twenty-eight Additional Persons Hit Trail Saturday and Sunday — Bootleggers Denounced in Sermon on Booze—Meetings All This Week.

The total number of converts at the close of the great mass meeting at the Sunnyside tabernacle Sunday night was 638. Saturday 8 went forward and Sunday 20 more were enrolled.

The total attendance at the meetings Sunday afternoon and Sunday night was estimated at almost 4500, which is perhaps the largest number of people ever gathered together under one roof in a single day in the history of Washington C. H. Every seat was occupied, scores stood in the aisles, while others went home unable to find a seat. At night the crowd was fully as large.

In the afternoon Prof. Troy and Miss Anna Kier sang a beautiful duet.

Rev. Grove, pastor of the Christian church, and Rev. J. V. Stone, pastor of Grace M. E. church, occupied chairs in the pulpit. Each made a talk, strongly endorsing the great work being accomplished by Evangelist Willhite and his musical director, Prof. Troy.

Evangelist Willhite gave his sermon on "Booze," and those who heard it voted it one of the strongest temperance discourses ever delivered here. He said there were bootleggers in the audience wearing long faces. "We know who you are and what you are doing," shouted the evangelist, "and if you don't show an inclination to quit that business and lead a better life by coming down here and getting right with God, your names will be turned over to the mayor for investigation."

The speaker said that a Washington C. H. man almost died after drinking some bootleg whiskey. A doctor sent some of the stuff to Columbus and an analysis showed it to contain 60 per cent gasoline.

"You old soaks are spending more than $5 a gallon too much for your gasoline," he declared.

There will be meetings every night this week. It is expected that the meetings may close next Sunday night. There will be no afternoon meetings this week as it was planned to do.

Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22d.

A RARE combination of statesmanship and military genius; an unusual embodiment of tenacity, unshakable courage; a keen and militant sense of justice; these were the great virtues of George Washington.

They represent the spirit of fairness which we should strive for in our business relations which should manifest itself in the sale of good merchandise, in the giving of values, in the guarantee of satisfaction. In that spirit we are trying to run this store.

CRAIG BROSSTILL AFTER THE ROSS COUNTY WOLVES

Parties of armed men are still scouring the countryside in east Ross county searching for five wolves which are at large in that locality.

One of the parties found a dog with his throat torn open and the bones of a rabbit nearby, and other evidence that the pack of wolves had been at work, but so far the hunters have not located the marauders which have been doing so much damage to live stock and fowls, and which upon two occasions have attacked farmers.
